

Bernard Chiira is a purpose-driven Startup innovation and development support professional. He is the Director of Innovate Now, Africa's 1st Assistive Technology Startup Accelerator.

Bernard has global leadership and management experience spanning 8 years, working across diverse technology and entrepreneurship development projects with partners across Africa, Europe, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. He has worked with Strathmore University, Global Disability Innovation Hub, Amref Health Innovations, Afrilabs, Pangea Accelerator & Pangea Trust, Global Innovation Catalyst, Association of Startup and SME Enablers of Kenya (ASSEK), Kenya Innovation Agency among others.

He has a background in Business and Information Technology (BSc, Computer Science) and Mobile Telecommunication and Innovation (MSc, Computer Science) from Strathmore University. Bernard is a Stanford Centre for Professional Development (SCPD) certified fellow on venture capital and new technology venture development.