

The East Africa Community Development Strategy (2016/2017-2020/21) sited some challenges facing the East Africa Court of Justice (E A C J), this calls for standardization of Anti-Corruption Policies among other issues. The proposal is significant to the domain of standards and technical regulations in the EAC as it seeks to harmonize the policies that currently exist in the field. The concept of standards and technical regulations are technical, scientific and relatively new in the EAC block. Therefore the proposal seek harmonized policies by East Africa Standard Committee, other relevant East Africa structures and Policy makers to design standards, policies and technical regulations that enhance integration process and integrity and strengthen the functionality of the East Africa Court of Justice (E A C J), enhance good governance, rule of law and come up with universally accepted human rights and standards as enshrined in the treaty. In addition, the East Africa Committee should formulate policies to enhance automation of data collection and validation processes to address matters related to corruption, money laundering and track movement of stolen assets within the region. This should include the use of advance data analytical tools that enable the analysis of large volume of information from disparate sources at their disposal and come up with a complete and coherent picture.
